To whom it may concern.

I fitted the ERPS system to my 1992 Toyota Landcruiser Wagon in 2001. After picking up a bunch of brochures at one of the 4WD shows, I decided to purchase the ERPS system. It had the most experience in the industry and it was also Australian made.

I go to beach 2-3 times a year. When I return from the beach I give the vehicle an under body wash, but I don't go over board. With the type of environment I subject my vehicle to, and from previous experience, I know there would be some form of rust if I wasn't using the ERPS system.

Without a doubt the ERPS system is the best rust prevention I have ever used. It is simple to fit, it works and the sand doesn't stick to it.

No sign of rust means the system is doing its job, and when people comment on how good it looks for its age, that's always a bonus.

Thanks again
